Energy Efficiency

- UNDP’s Local Development Reached
- Total Beneficiaries: 419
- Total Microprojects: 2,408
- Rural and Urban Communities: 419
- Community Resources Centers: 7,5 mln

Rural Economic Development

- Total Beneficiaries: 419
- Total Microprojects: 2,457
- Rural and Urban Communities: 419
- Community Organizations: 4,001

Urban Communities

- Total Beneficiaries: 7,5 mln
- Total Microprojects: 4,001

Co-Funding: from ideas to actions

Inspired communities are organized and motivated:
- By design, UNDP’s methodology promotes ownership by demanding community organizations contribute to local solutions – prior to intervention.
- By engaging in participatory planning and budgeting, and with UNDP’s support, communities develop strategies and mobilize local and external resources.
- UNDP’s local development partnership spreads to neighboring communities, and it is a positive cycle perpetuated over time.
- UNDP’s network of Regional Partnerships, Local Development Forums, Community Resource Centers, and UNDP Community Organizations, solidified in every detail and ready to go.

Population: 10 mln
- 0.6 mln women
- 0.4 mln men

Total budget USD
- 1.1 mln
- 3.3 mln
- 7.7 mln

Energy efficiency transformation in Ukraine is driven by a demand-driven process and an external driver: national and donor support. The process of engagement in the local community is a key component to allocate and authorize in a collaborative process, ensuring that UNDP resources in safeguarding and support local institutions, developing an understanding of local stakeholders and mobilizing local resources.

Co-Owners of Multi-Apartment Buildings (ACMB)

- Total Microprojects: 458

Community Organizations (COs)

- Total Microprojects: 390

Decentralization from the bottom up

Decentralization reforms lower state government services for citizens and the needs to build local development in the areas of infrastructure, poverty alleviation, energy efficiency, sustainable communities, and sustainable development.

Total Beneficiaries: 0.4 mln
- 0.2 mln women
- 0.2 mln men

Decentralization Reform in Ukraine and beyond

- UNDP’s local development is driven by the specific needs of individual communities.MANAGEd with dedicated local citizens, communities and partners of UNDP to help communities organize community (CSOs), and local authorities to administer investment with local community organizations (COs).

Total Beneficiaries: 131
- 117 women
- 14 men

Through a web shop, training and coaching for Co-Owners of Multi-Apartment Buildings (ACMBs), and self-learning methods in rural and urban communities.

Total Beneficiaries: 3,8448
- 2,904 women
- 0.944 men

Community Resource Centers

- Total Microprojects: 131

Total Beneficiaries: 2,6.08
- 1,786 women
- 0.822 men

Decentralization and local development in Ukraine:

- UNDP has trained 3,963 COs: 2,563 went on to mobilize $2.7 mil. for their own community projects.

Before organizing an ACMB, we couldn’t afford even basic repairs. But now we have control over our budget and community projects through a web shop.

“Before organizing an ACMB we couldn’t afford even basic repairs. We always had to ask for permission to repair buildings or pay out of pocket.” Ruslan Horenko, ASC Leader, Zhovtneve, Zaporizka region.

“Since we became an ACMB, we’ve improved services, reduced taxes, and we’ve saved money on repairs.” Larysa Stepanyuk, a mother of three, at a general family meeting.

“Before organizing an ACMB, we couldn’t afford even basic repairs. We always had to ask for permission to repair buildings or pay out of pocket.” Ruslan Horenko, ASC Leader, Zhovtneve, Zaporizka region.

“Before organizing an ACMB, we couldn’t afford even basic repairs. We always had to ask for permission to repair buildings or pay out of pocket.” Ruslan Horenko, ASC Leader, Zhovtneve, Zaporizka region.

“Before organizing an ACMB, we couldn’t afford even basic repairs. We always had to ask for permission to repair buildings or pay out of pocket.” Ruslan Horenko, ASC Leader, Zhovtneve, Zaporizka region.
UNDP engages regional & local authorities to identify areas of need and then reaches out to citizens to make a development plan.

A Community Organization (CO) is formed, registered, and trained along with local authorities to integrate a concept into joint-planning.

UNDP facilitates dialogue with authorities, the CO, and the public to properly and transparently proceed with a proposal for a micro-project.

Public tender is conducted by CO, reviewed and approved by UNDP to find a contractor. UNDP monitors the entire process.

A contractor begins work. UNDP provides coaching to the CO and local authority to properly maintain oversight and project financial management.

Both the CO and the local authorities are mandated to save funds for the continued maintenance of the project.

UNDP facilitates a public audit of the project, and 'hand over' to the CO and authorities. The method/result is seen by others and duplicated and multiplied in other communities/themes.